

Reprieve is an international human rights organisation based in London that works with partner organisations in the USA and around the world. Founded in 1999 by British human rights lawyer, Clive Stafford Smith, we provide free legal and investigative support to some of the world's most vulnerable people: those who face execution, detention in secret prisons, or state-sanctioned assassinations.

We pursue strategic initiatives to end extreme human rights abuses by making it legally, financially and practically difficult for governments to carry out these abuses, through a combination of investigation, litigation, and press and public scrutiny. We work closely with our Fellows and partner organisations around the world. Reprieve has 37 staff at its headquarters in London, and employs two Fellows in the USA, a Fellow in Pakistan, and a Fellow in Malawi.

Reprieve seeks applicants for Fellowship positions at our headquarters in London or with any of our partner organisations, including our sister organisation Reprieve US in New York. Reprieve will also consider applications for fellowships based in other locations that are relevant to the fellowship opportunity. As Reprieve is not able to provide direct funding, we ask applicants to seek sponsorship from Equal Justice Works, law school-funds and other public interest fellowships to begin in 2018.

Overview

For the past two decades, Reprieve has used a fellowship model to support and work with human rights defenders and their organizations in some of the most challenging and varied jurisdictions in the world – from Indonesia to Pakistan, Yemen, Malawi and the American Deep South. Reprieve's fellowship programme gives fellows the opportunity to be directly involved in ground-breaking human rights work; the high-quality work of the fellows enables Reprieve and its partners to seize on strategic opportunities and develop projects that have the potential to transform the criminal justice landscape.

Fellowship Opportunity

Reprieve seeks applicants to consider for sponsorship for public interest fellowships to begin in 2018.

Reprieve is particularly interested in welcoming a candidate to work on a project focusing on one of our three areas of focus:

- Death penalty
- Secret Prisons
- Assassinations

Death penalty

Reprieve works to end the death penalty worldwide. We fight to save individuals from execution, but also to challenge whole systems of injustice by focusing on cases most likely to have a wider impact.

We are on the frontline, investigating cases, tracking down evidence and witnesses and work with lawyers to take action in the courts. We combine legal action with public campaigns and advocacy.

Past death penalty related fellowship projects have included: helping to get over 100 former death row inmates out of prison in Malawi by organising and facilitating resentencing hearings; working on

Secret Prisons

Reprieve investigates and advocates in relation to extra-judicial proxy detention and military detention in secret prisons around the world. We reunite 'disappeared' prisoners with their legal rights.

Past secret prisons related fellowship projects have included working on cases of individuals detained in Guantanamo Bay. Reprieve's founder was one of the three lawyers who in 2001 demanded and successfully sued for the first legal access to the detention centre. Reprieve has secured freedom for 77 former detainees – more than any other law firm or NGO – and continues to work to secure the release of those still there.

Assassinations

The US global assassinations programme against alleged terror suspects is the death penalty without trial. Under Obama the drone programme was responsible for thousands of deaths and an erosion of legal standards regulating the use of lethal force outside of armed conflict. Under Trump, this programme of state-sponsored assassination is expanding still further. Reprieve is assisting survivors and victims' families in their fight for legal accountability, transparency and justice. We are seeking an end to the use of extra-judicial killing by the US and seeking to end European complicity in US abuses.

Current assassinations related fellowship projects include investigating cases of individuals who may be wrongly entered on the US Kill List and developing legal strategies to help protect these individuals. The work also includes investigating and exposing the stories of those wrongfully killed as part of the drone programme, and tracking developments in international law and policy in this area.

Role and responsibilities

These will vary according to the applicant's interests and the project devised. Broadly fellows will be expected to:

- Conduct legal and/or factual research and analysis and develop theories to support new litigation projects and advocacy strategies;
- Draft memoranda and briefings;
- Interview witnesses and people who Reprieve assists;
- Draft and edit public education and non-litigation advocacy materials;
- Provide support to Reprieve partners;
- Assist with managing the volunteer program and supervising the output of volunteers;
- Engage in public speaking and attend meetings and/or conferences as needed.

Experience and qualifications

- Must be a post-graduate in 2018, with the necessary qualifications for the relevant fellowship
- Excellent research and writing skills.

How to apply

Individuals interested in undertaking a fellowship with Reprieve should submit a letter of interest describing relevant experience and interest in the potential project areas described above, a resume, the names and telephone numbers of two professional references, a writing sample to info@reprieve.org.uk with Reference [Reprieve Fellow - 2018] in the subject line, and information about their eligibility to obtain a visa in the event that they are requesting to carry out their fellowship in one of our locations where they do not reside.

Applications will be accepted until the positions are filled, and subject to visa requirements and identity checks.

Interviews will take place on a rolling basis and may be conducted over Skype.

Please indicate your preferred location, your willingness for us to provide our partner organisation in that location with a copy of your application over email, and your ability to obtain a visa for that location if required.

Please indicate where you learned of this job posting.

Compensation

Reprieve does not provide direct funding for these roles and applicants will need to find their own funding. Reprieve will, where possible, provide assistance in completing funding applications. Reprieve will directly reimburse reasonable visa and insurance costs.

This job description provides a general but not comprehensive list of the essential responsibilities and qualifications that may be required. It does not represent a contract of employment. Reprieve reserves the right to change the job description and/or posting at any time without advance notice.

This Fellowship opportunity is posted by Reprieve, a UK registered charity (No. 1114900). This fellowship opportunity is also available with our partner organisations, including our sister organisation, Reprieve US, a registered US 501(c)(3) charity in New York.
